This view shows the position of the occupant on landing. When in orbit, the space man will face forward. On the return trip, the capsule will be spun around so the man will reenter the Earth's atmosphere backwards (as shown) with a heat-absorbing shield behind his back. An inflated rubber pad on the bottom will cushion the capsule's drop after a parachute opens at the top. (NEA Telephoto)

Mayor Loses One-Rounder To Sergeant

AURORA, Ill. (AP)—Mayor Paul Egan, 58, lost a one-round brawl to Aurora City Council's 43-year-old burly sergeant-at-arms Monday.

The usually voluble mayor, who spent the night in St. Charles Hospital, refused to talk about the fight.

Hospital officials declined to report on the condition of Egan, a stormy petrel in Aurora since his election as mayor in 1953. Earlier, however, Dr. J. D. Rossman said Egan had suffered a cut on the right side of his jaw and some bruised swellings on his face. He said the mayor also complained that his back was injured.

In Monday's brief fist encounter, Egan, feuding with his police chief and 64-man police force since last fall, was sent sprawling to the floor in a hallway outside the council chambers from a left to the jaw landed by Herman M. Halbesma, Halbesma, 6 feet 3, 200-pound city building inspector acting as sergeant-at-arms at a council meeting, had bounced the mayor from the council chambers on orders from other commissioners.

The fight climaxed a heated shouting match between Egan and Halbesma that broke up a wild, gavel-banging council meeting.

Egan, banging the gavel, had told the four commissioners that he would consider no business except his order of firing Police Chief Donald Curran. The commissioners ignored him and Egan continued to pound the gavel and shout.

The commissioners then ordered Halbesma to eject the mayor, who is serving his second four-year term. He pulled the struggling Egan from the mayor's chair, off the podium and out to a rear doorway.

Rural Members Fight Grading Law on Eggs

Another Bill Would Ease Bonds Voting

Retirement Increase Sought by Highway Staff, Patrolmen

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Some rural members of Missouri's House want the state to abandon its four-year-old egg-grading law and go back to the old law.

Rep. Loyd Estep (R) of Christian county said the new law is tough on the small farmer and the little crossroads stores because eggs have to be candied and graded according to quality and size.

Estep and several others offered the bill in the House today.

A proposal to make it easier for local subdivisions of government to go into debt was offered by Rep. Obbie Walker (D) of Montgomery county. Now bonded indebtedness cannot be authorized without a two-thirds majority vote of the people.

The proposal would change the constitution so a simple majority would be enough. School districts still could go into debt up to 10 percent of the district's assessed valuation. Other subdivisions would retain the 5 percent limit.

Gov. James T. Blair recommended last week that the school limit be raised to 15 or 20 percent, so some poorer districts could construct much needed buildings.

Other new bills offered today would:

Raise by 50 percent retirement pay of highway department employees and members of the state highway patrol. Their annual retirement pay now is based on two-thirds of one percent of their highest monthly pay times the number of years of service. The new measure would make the percentage 1 percent. No increase would be required in the 4 percent contribution of the employees.

Require driver training courses in all Missouri high schools. Now a few more than half the high schools offer driver training.

Solve the public safety problem by giving the director of the Division of Industrial Inspection the authority to inspect all public buildings, including schools, and order any changes necessary to reduce fire hazards.

Install higher beer and liquor taxes as recommended last week by Gov. Blair and also increase the tax on fortified wines. Beer taxes would be raised from 65 cents to a dollar a barrel and liquor taxes from 85 cents to $1.20. Bills to make those changes already have been offered but the new bill would also increase the tax on fortified wines from the present 10 cents a gallon to 15 cents.

Last night the House Social Security Committee approved two bills—the first to scale the committee hurdle in this new session.

Makes TV Appearance

No Insults to Soviet In Hollywood Visit

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP)—Hollywood in a police-led caravan to keep the hastily made TV date. Not an egg, tomato or epithet was hurled at Mikoyan all day, in sharp contrast to his earlier visits in Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago and San Francisco. Police and State Department representatives kept him under close guard and will shepherd him to the airport today for his return flight to New York.

On the 25-minute TV program, Mikoyan answered a set of questions—carefully approved beforehand—that were submitted by commentator Paul Coates.

Mikoyan described himself, as he has throughout his United States tour, as a friendly grandfather who feels the differences between the U. S. and the Soviet Union can best be resolved by working closer together, especially in trade.

Could the dispute over the West's occupation of Berlin lead to a war? asked Coates.

"As far as we are concerned, we do not want a war," Mikoyan said through an interpreter. "But it is up to the other side to keep peace."

Earlier in the day, Mikoyan was asked for comment on whether his Saturday meeting with President Eisenhower in Washington might help resolve the Berlin situation.

"I don't know what we will discuss at this time," he said. "But we will discuss everything that will be of interest to Mr. Eisenhower." He merely shrugged when asked whether the Berlin dispute would come up.

In the morning, Mikoyan spoke at the University of California at Los Angeles to a graduate political science seminar, walked the sprawling campus and then threw his planned itinerary out of whack by asking to see the Pacific Ocean, some five miles away.

The party hastened out Sunset Boulevard, Mikoyan got out and took a deep breath of salt air, peered at the foggy sea a moment, then drove back into town for luncheon at one of the fanciest restaurants on Wilshire Boulevard.

On hand were such enthusiastic free enterprisers as oil millionaire Edwin Pauley, aircraft executive Cyril Chappell and movie mogul Sam Goldwyn.

From there the motorcade swung through red traffic lights to nearby Paramount Studios. Waiting for the Soviet official were expensively dressed studio executives, office workers, painted starlets and a few bearded cowboy extras lounging against the front gate.

"I haven't seen anything like this since the days of Valentino," said one veteran stagehand.

Mikoyan, followed by a large group of reporters and photographers, dropped in on two sound stages. On the set of "One-Eyed Jack" he held a zany bilingual conversation with Marlon Brando. The actor spoke to Mikoyan in French, and the Soviet deputy answered in Russian to an interpreter who relayed it to Brando in French.

When he walked onto a nearby set where Jerry Lewis was making "Don't Give Up the Ship," the comedian quipped: "Is this the guy? He looks like Aaron Lebadoff."

Mikoyan joined in the laughter when it was explained that Lebadoff was a well-known comic of the Yiddish theater.

A camera crew then shot an actual film sequence of Mikoyan, Lewis and actress Dina Merrill. The scene was broken up when studio boss Y. Frank Freeman complained: "This scene has just cost me a thousand dollars."

Ike's Budget Contemplates Big Surplus

Sees Tax Reduction If New Congress Agrees With Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower told the new Republican leaders of Congress today his 77 billion dollar budget for the new fiscal year contemplates a surplus of about 100 million dollars.

House GOP Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana told newsmen there is hope of a tax reduction in the next two or three years if the heavily Democratic new Congress goes along with Eisenhower's spending and legislative programs.

The President's budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 will go to Congress next Monday. The White House recently announced it would be a balanced budget calling for spending about 77 billion dollars—approximately two billion less than in the current year.

Today, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in reply to a question that Eisenhower informed the GOP congressional delegation the budget actually contemplates a surplus of about 100 million dollars.

In the current fiscal year a deficit of about 12 billion dollars is in prospect. This was Eisenhower's first meeting with the party's congressional chiefs since election of new leaders last week.

In advance of the White House session Dirksen said he expected only a general discussion of the legislative program. He said there was no arrangement to report to Senate Republicans, who have yet to set up their policy committee.

Claim Atlas Will Die

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Scientists at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory estimate that Atlas, America's biggest satellite, will plunge in flames Jan. 21.

The scientists said that the 4½-ton artificial moon will burn and disintegrate when 30 to 50 miles aloft in its plunge.

Dr. George Veis said the satellite, launched Dec. 18, will have made about 500 trips around the world before it expires.

Costello vowed he was "framed" in the gun case, that he is being sent up because the FBI thinks he was involved in the disappearance of the Greenlease money.

Costello was sentenced to 30 months and Cannelia to 18 under a law prohibiting a person convicted of a felony to transport firearms across a state line. Costello once served a term for burglary.

A driver for his firm provided the tip that led to the arrest of the kidnap-killers of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City. The two arresting officers have since served prison terms for lying about handling of the suitcases from which about half of the record $600,000 ransom was recovered.

A 1958 Tabulation

National Guard Pay Adds Much to Local Economy

In addition to standing ready to serve the state or the nation in case of emergency, the National Guard payroll adds a considerable amount to the local economy.

This was brought out this week when Sedalia's two National Guard units, 35th Infantry Division headquarters and Battery "C", 128th Field Artillery Battalion, prepared income tax withholding form for the units. The units checked up to find out just where the money went, and came up with the following answer:

A total of $10,000 was paid to members of the two units, seven full-time civilian employees and three Regular Army advisors stationed at the Armory, for the year ending Dec. 31.

To determine just how the money was spent, each member of the unit was canvassed to see just where the money went. Eighteen homes were purchased; 25 automobiles, both new and used, were traded for; several units of farm machinery as well as an expensive tractor were purchased. The remainder of the money went for furniture, lumber for home repairs, sporting goods and many other items were bought.

The money came from 48 regular weekly drills at the Armory and 15 days of field training during the summer.

Militarily, the units have maintained superior ratings for many years, and have offered public service at various times, including duty at the riot at the Missouri State Penitentiary and the rescue of a sick man in the deep snow of 1958.

Federal officers immediately began the trip with Costello and Cannelia to the federal prison at Terre Haute, Ind.

Horsewoman To Speak At Lions Meeting

The Sedalia Lions Club for their noonday meeting, Wednesday, will have Mrs. Claude H. Drew, of Columbia, as their speaker. The meeting is to be held in the Pacific Room of the Pacific Cafe.

Mrs. Drew, who is affiliated with Christian College in Columbia, is affectionately known as "Mom" Drew to her students. She has been an avid horse enthusiast for many years and for the past two years served as superintendent of the Missouri State Fair horse show.

She had won over 100 horseman-ship classes before she ever under- took to teach anyone how to ride or show horses. She also had the distinction of having won all of the Ladies and Gait Classes, both three and five gaited, at the Mis- souri State Fair show for four years in succession, taking every class with a different horse.

Mrs. Drew says, "I was born in Missouri, attended school and col- lege in Missouri, married a Mis- souri boy, and we reared and edu- cated two children." Her daugh- ter, Shirley, is now head riding instructor at Stephens College, and her son, Howard, is farming a 400-acre farm east of Columbia.

Mrs. Drew is well-versed on show horses and has participated both in showing at many of the big shows throughout the country and as a judge in many. She was appointed to head up the Missouri show by Gov. James T. Blair, Jr., as superintendent, and built the show to one of the largest in the Midwest.

The speaker will be introduced by M. C. "Colie" Ervin, program chairman for the meeting.

The Lions are meeting at the Pacific Room during vacation at Flat Creek Inn, the regular meet- ing place for the local club.

Graham Has Appointment With Mayo's

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Ailing revivalist Billy Graham heads today for an appointment with Mayo Clinic specialists. Cauti- oned by Vice President Richard M. Nixon to "get some rest," he still plans a crusade in Australia. But he is postponing the start by at least a week and is not sure whether he will be able to go through with other projected visits on a world tour.

The 40-year-old preacher may learn this week the cause of an ailment that has left him with only 50 per cent vision in his left eye. It has been described as a "rare and serious condition" by his father-in-law, a doctor.

Graham spent the night in a downtown Minneapolis hotel and plans to motor the 80 miles to the Rochester, Minn. clinic some- time today. With him will be members of his evangelistic team.

"I am sure I will recover and I have every expectation of going to Australia," Graham said. "But we have solemnly canceled a meeting at the Hula Bowl in Hawaii that was set for later this month and we will have to postpone the start of the Australian crusade at Mel- bourne from Feb. 8 to Feb. 15."

Arriving by air Monday night from Dallas, Tex., Graham told newsmen he received a telephone call earlier in the day from Nixon in Washington, advising him to get as much rest as possible.

"He told me from personal ex- perience he knew it was possible to win a battle and lose the war," Graham said.

"Doctors have told me I may be moving too fast, burning the candle at both ends," Graham said. "The main purpose of going to the clinic is to find out the ex- act cause of the ailment, if that is possible. I feel fine."

Attempt Made To Kill Wife Of Engleman

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Bullock slaying mystery was complicated today by a reported attempt on the life of Mrs. Eda Engleman and threats against her husband.

Her husband, Dr. Glenn E. Engleman, 31, is the former hus- band of Mrs. Edna Ruth Bullock, widow of the victim in the un- solved crime. James S. Bullock, 27, utility firm clerk and part- time university student, was shot to death in front of the city ar- museum Dec. 17.

Mrs. Engleman, whose husband has refused to submit to a lie de- tector test in the inquiry, said the driver of a car tried to run her down Monday.

A member of the Engleman family telephoned radio station KSD this version of the incident:

Mrs. Engleman left the public library, where she works, and stepped into the street to catch a streetcar. A black car, parked nearby, suddenly started up and sped directly toward her.

Mrs. Engleman leaped to safety when a woman standing in the streetcar safety zone screamed.

Mrs. Engleman did not report directly to police, but members of the homicide squad questioned her and were trying to locate wit- nesses.

Dr. Engleman also reported that shortly after his wife told him of the narrow escape he received an anonymous telephoned threat on his life.

Dr. Engleman, a dentist, twice refused to testify at a coroner's inquest into the slaying.

Mrs. Bullock, 23, in seclusion at her mother's home in Merriam, Kan., also has refused to take a lie detector test and declined to return to St. Louis for a grand jury investigation of the case.

Boys were reported throwing snowballs at Prospect and Wilk- son Monday evening. Officers talked to the boys and told them to cease the snowball operation.

A gasoline tank at the Fisher Ready Mix plant on Clinton Road was found unlocked by the police at 8 p.m. Monday. The officers locked it.

Two Greek seamen on the 20- 762-ton Mirador were killed in the December blast and one was in- jured. Turkish officials investigat- ed the possibility that the earlier blast was caused by sabotage.

The tug Imroz was pumping wa- ter out of the Mirador's flooded tanks when the explosion took place today. The fire quickly spread to the tug.

minor son to drive his car without a driver's license, and was fined $5 and costs. He explained to Judge Frank Armstrong that he was unaware that he was not per- mitted to allow his son to drive as long as he was beside him in the car. Judge Armstrong explained that, even if a youth between 15 and 16 is enrolled in a recognized driver training course, he is per- mitted to drive only in the dual- control instruction car with the in- structor beside him. Trooper Rich- ard Joos, who stopped the car, said he was stopped due to a mis- take. He said he was pursuing a speeding car similar to the Mc- Laughlin car, lost the speeder, and stopped McLaughlin instead. The routine check revealed the viola- tion. Judge Armstrong remitted the fine and costs.

Robert Lee Settles, Jr., filed a petition for $50,000 damages against Gary Cramer and the Black and White Cab Co. in Cir- cuit Court Jan. 10. In the petition Settles maintains that he received injuries in that amount in an ac- cident near the intersection of Broad- way and Barrett on Dec. 22. He states he was a passenger in a car driven by Cramer, which was involved in an accident with a Black and White cab. John C. Mc- Closkey is the attorney for the plaintiff.

Connie Lou Welch, 16, Route 5, filed a petition for $50,000 damages for personal injuries against Mar- vin Howard and Olin Howard, doing business as the Yellow Cab Co., Carl Powers, and Adrean Witthaus in Circuit Court Jan. 13. She maintains that she was in- jured in that amount in an auto- mobile accident near the intersec- tion of Griessen Road and New York on Oct. 3, 1956. She was a passenger in a taxicab driven by Powers when it collided with an auto driven by Witthaus. She charges both were careless and negligent.

Pine, Dixon and Welling, War- rensburg, are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Beware Phony Salesmen

Almost beyond belief are the great number of persons with accumulated savings who apparently cannot resist being fleeced. They have business acumen up to the point that some fast-talking swindler comes along and assures them they can double or triple their money.

Every now and then we read about some victim going to the authorities with a complaint which results in an investigation and a few times the apprehension of the crooks. But we'll never know about the ones who are so ashamed of being suckers they keep such an incident to themselves. Some Sedalians can count themselves in this category. The amazing thing is that persons who read in newspapers about the unhappy experience of others, still are gullible not to recognize the pitfalls when a sharper starts working on them. Such business frauds must be easy to perpetrate else the fancy tricksters of immaculate appearance and assumed culture would not be working at such a nefarious trade.

One might call attention to dozens of schemes used to bilk the unsuspecting public, but there is one racket which NEA reporter Ward Cannel calls attention to—the phony stock market operators. He says that within the next 12 months, Americans will lose $150,000,000 to them. His observation is based on unhappy conclusions reached by Albert C. Lasher, a financial observer of long experience.

The "phony" operators in question are the boiler room men. They frequently use respectable-sounding addresses in the New York financial center to give a dignified front to the swindle. Their tools are batteries of telephones, manned by high-pressure salesmen who know every trick of fleecing the gullible. Long-distance calls are common, for the reason that they impress people and command attention. We have had experience with this type in other realms of activity and have learned to turn them down.

The operators make all sorts of guarantees and promises on behalf of stocks which are worthless or virtually so. And their victims, more often than not, are people who should know better—professional men and business men.

Government agencies, the stock markets, reputable brokers and others all work constantly to protect the investing public against these rackets. But laws and regulations can do only so much. The real protection is an informed stock-buying public. As Mr. Lasher puts it: "... you should know how the market works and how to check on stocks and brokers. The information is available. But getting it requires some time and energy—and the boiler room men know it."

So the matter comes down to this—are you willing to spend the time and energy required to learn about stocks before you buy? If not, there's an excellent chance your savings will be part of that $150,000,000 the phony operators will rake in during 1959.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Liquor Money to Alabama Politicians

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Here are more details on how the political cronies of ex-Gov. Gordon Persons set up their tax deal by which they received thousands of dollars from liquor companies, yet paid no taxes on it.

As previously reported, the Treasury Department officially recommended criminal prosecution of the Alabamians, but someone in Washington higher up than the Treasury countermanded the prosecution. Tax officials in the Justice Department have been maintaining red-faced silence. Governor Persons insisted to this column that he had not appealed to his brother, Gen. Wilton Persons, now replacing Sherman Adams in the White House, for aid.

Ex-Governor Persons did admit that he had received some of this concealed money—though as political contributions. This, on its face, is strange, since Alabama law does not permit a governor to succeed himself; therefore Persons had no need for political contributions after he was elected and after he appointed henchmen to the liquor board.

Any tax prosecution obviously would have been highly embarrassing to Persons and, indirectly, to his brother in the White House.

It is estimated that during the Persons regime (1950-54) $200,000,000 in cash and $500,000,000 in free liquor was collected from the liquor companies by the governor's cohorts. The segment of this operation which came in for intensive tax investigation by the Treasury was that conducted by Jimmy Thrower, ex-mayor of Dothan, Ala., appointed to the ABC liquor board, and Emory Solomon, a leader of the Persons forces in the Alabama legislature.

Others involved in the deal, some of them possibly innocent victims, were:

Network of Front Men

1. S. E. Gellerstedt, whose wife is remotely related to ex-Mayor Thrower. He was approached by Thrower with an offer to make some money. Under the deal which was then set up, Gellerstedt was put on the payroll of Berke Brothers Distilleries and Taylor Wines. He mailed most of his salary checks to Thrower's post office box 236 in Dothan. The money was then deposited in Gellerstedt's name without his knowledge at the Headland National Bank.

In 1952 alone Gellerstedt collected $19,977.50 from the two liquor companies. He then proceeded to kick-back $12,173.75 to Thrower.

However, Gellerstedt eventually decided that he wasn't receiving a fair share and broke up the deal. He cashed one of the larger checks and held out most of it.

2. Dan Sallis, a tenant farmer on Thrower's land, was also hired as a liquor agent and kicked back most of his salary to Thrower. This money was also deposited in the Headland Bank in Sallis's name but without his knowledge.

3. Henry D. Williams, a football coach who lived next door to Thrower's summer cottage in Panama City, Fla., also became an Alabama liquor agent even though he spent no time in Alabama. He was then coaching football at Panama City's Bay High School. Later he moved to West Palm Beach, Florida, where he is now coaching.

The checks sent to Williams by the liquor companies were mailed to the general delivery window at Pensacola, Fla. He claims none of the money was kicked back, that he invested it all in real estate.

4. Thomas B. Hand, once associated with Emory Solomon in a veneer business, was hired by the liquor companies and kicked back over $12,000 of his salary to Solomon. However, Solomon insists the money was part payment of a $35,000 debt.

5. W. F. Hatcher, a political crony of Solomon's, also turned up on the payroll of Taylor Wines and of "Mr. Boston," a well-known liquor brand. All Solomon would acknowledge receiving from Hatcher was $500. He claimed this was a political contribution.

Illicit Liquor Agent

6. F. H. Grace, a $60-a-week employee in Solomon's fertilizer plant, was also hired as a liquor agent—though he neither reads nor writes. Gib Solomon, a brother of the Alabama legislator, opened a bank account for Grace at the Headland Bank of which he is part owner. Grace denies any part of his liquor salary was kicked back. It's a bit unusual for two prominent liquor companies located in the north to hire, as a liquor agent, an employee in a fertilizer plant who cannot read or write.

7. Julian Brannan, who is Solomon's fourth cousin, also was given a job with the liquor companies. What work he did remains a mystery, but he collected a salary while continuing to work in Solomon's service station and auto agency. Brannan claims he pocketed the whole amount himself.

This was the intricate setup arranged by the political cohorts of Gov. Gordon Persons by which money was received from northern liquor companies and used for political and perhaps personal purposes in Alabama. Jimmy Thrower, as a member of the ABC liquor board, could ban any brand of liquor from being sold in Alabama, therefore had great power over the liquor companies.

When federal tax investigators began digging into this complicated array of front men, both Thrower and Solomon hastily filed amended tax returns and paid taxes on the income received from the front men. However, this was no substitution for criminal prosecution. If every taxpayer in the U.S. would fudge on his taxes, 'til he was caught, and then pay up back taxes, there would be no tax collection at all.

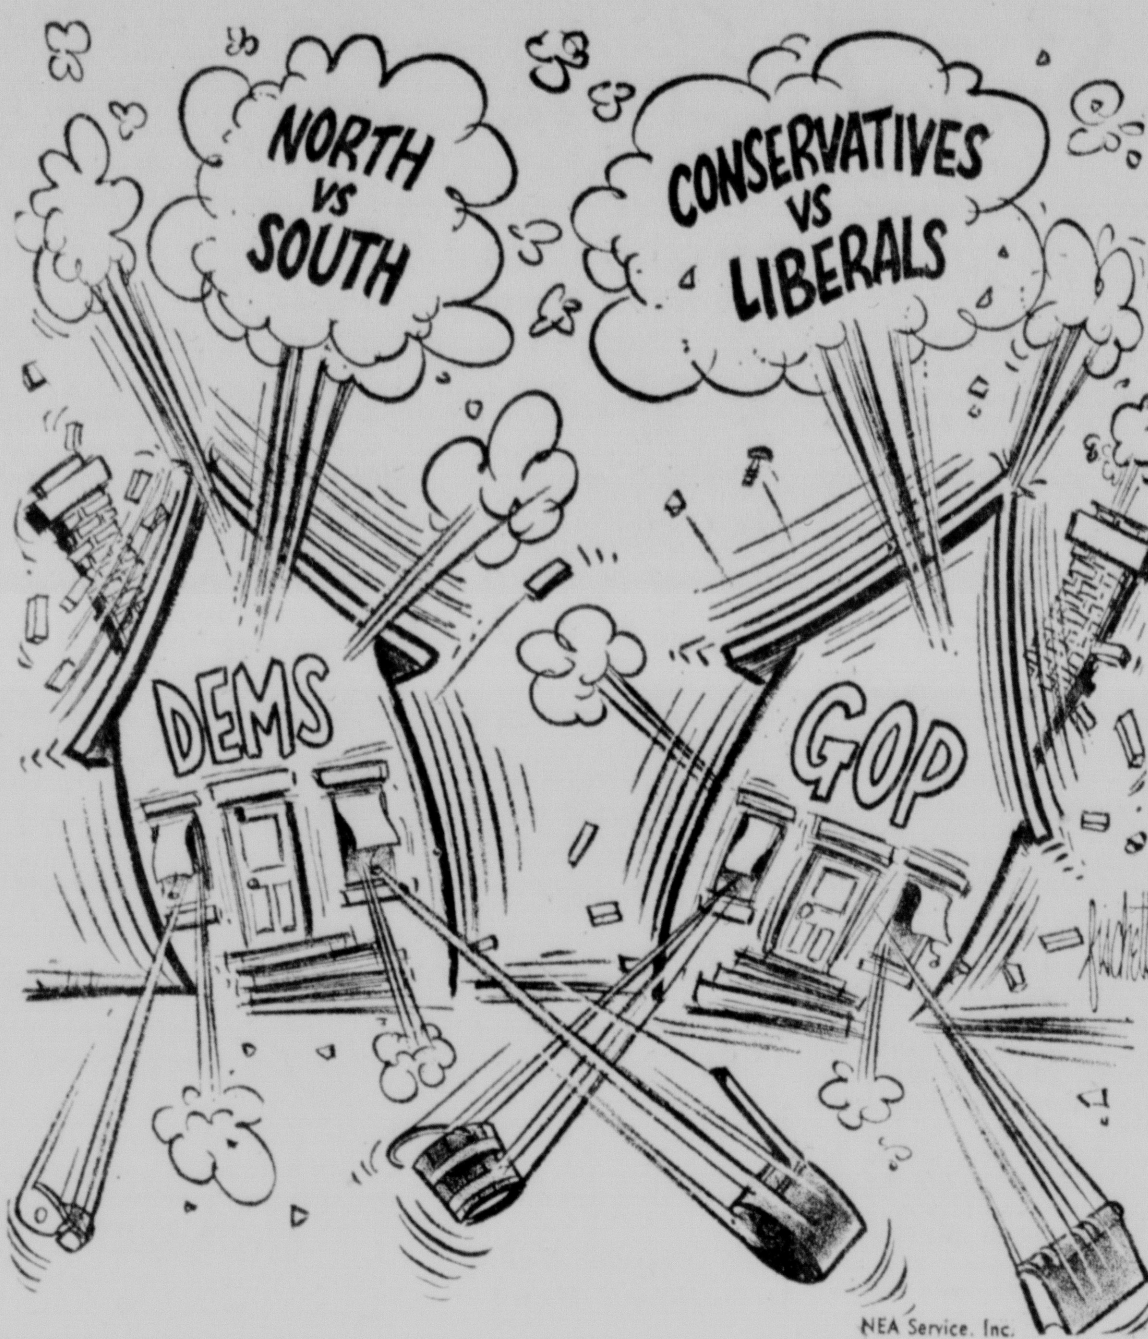

The men caught in this tax scandal have still not been prosecuted. Just who the powerful friend was who stepped in to stop prosecution still remains a mystery—which will be investigated in an early column.

The World Today

Johnson Makes Liberals Look Amateurish

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Liberals looked amateurish compared with the professionalism of Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas who outmaneuvered their efforts to make it much easier to smash a filibuster.

To make a long story short: When the showdown came they didn't have the votes. Johnson did. Knowing the thoroughness of Johnson, it seems safe to say he had his votes lined up beforehand and the liberals didn't.

What happened would indicate one of two things about the fight they made:

1. Either they were overly optimistic on the support they'd get from the rest of the Senate and didn't make a nose count, or—

2. They knew their chance was slim but decided to go ahead and fight anyway for the sake of the record and to get at least some concessions.

Under the old Senate Rule No. 22 a filibuster could be stopped only by a two-thirds vote of all the senators, or 66 of the 98 senators. A filibuster is a prolonged talking spree whose sole purpose is to prevent some bill or measure from coming to a vote.

Such a two-thirds vote is tremendously difficult to get in the Senate, where so many members traditionally cherish the right—which any one of them might want to use someday—to block a distasteful measure.

In addition, the rule provided no means at all—not even that big two-thirds vote—for stopping a filibuster against a motion to change the rule.

The liberals set out to get the rule changed right at the start of this session of Congress last Wednesday. They wanted it changed to let a simple majority—50 of the 98 members—stop a filibuster.

But Johnson, leader of the majority Democrats, grabbed the floor right from the start. This was his right, as leader. And he beat the liberals to the punch by proposing that Rule No. 22 be changed this way:

To let a filibuster be stopped—not by the full two-thirds vote of 66 of the 98 senators or by 50 of the 98—but by a simple two-thirds vote of just those senators present on the floor at voting time.

This may seem lots easier to get. In actual practice, it probably wouldn't be, because on anything so important as breaking a filibuster, most of the senators would be present anyway.

But it was a concession to the liberals. Southern Democrats, who have used the filibuster to block civil rights legislation, didn't like the concessions. It was more than they wanted to yield. It was less than the liberals wanted.

But Johnson, whose job is to try to keep all the Democratic senators working together during this year on legislation he wants passed, is a master at compromise. What he proposed at compromise was enough of a compromise to win the votes it needed for adoption.

From the time Johnson made his proposal, the liberals had almost impossible going. The reason: Johnson had made a concession that wouldn't antagonize the Southern too much and would satisfy those other senators who thought Rule No. 22 ought to be softened a bit but not too much. The result: The liberals were voted down on one attempt after another to get the rules changed to their liking, thus paving the way for overwhelming adoption of Johnson's proposal.

There's no doubt the liberals did a lot of homework: Research on the history of Rule No. 22 and the filibuster. But in the terribly important field of practical politics—votes—whatever they did wasn't enough.

The Mature Parent

What Happens When Child Lies to Protect Friend?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Nine-year-old Fran came home from skating with her friend Dot sporting a sparkling bead necklace. Asked where she'd got it, she said she'd bought it with some allowance savings.

But later her story turned out to be a lie. Dot's mother telephoned to say that the necklace had been charged to her account at a specialty store. She said, "Apparently the kids saw these beads in the window, and Dot wanted to show off by buying them for Fran."

Faced with this news, Fran stubbornly stuck to her lie. Only when she learned that Dot had broken down and confessed the truth did she finally confess it too.

The confession brought no relief to her mother. Closing the bedroom door on Fran's sobs, she thought, "Oh, God, what have I done to make this child so stubbornly untruthful?"

Today she's still terribly distressed.

To me, Fran's untruthfulness is much less distressing. In it I can see mistaken action, but I can also see in it loyalty to her friend.

Had Fran not felt obliged to protect Dot against punishment for abusing her mother's charge account, she would have proclaimed the truth about the necklace with pride and pleasure.

Like Fran's mother, we parents can be so frightened by a child's lie that we become blind to its inherent meaning.

A psychiatrist once said to me, "Parents' greatest need is the acceptance of their own pasts." It is our fear of our own pasts that creates our panic at a child's lie. If we trust the example of truthfulness we have given Fran, her lie does not overwhelm us with panic.

We do not think, "Oh, what a failure I am." We remember what we've shown Fran of the value of truthfulness.

Without distress we can say to our crushed youngster, "What you wanted this lie to do was protect Dot against punishment, wasn't it? And the lie didn't do it. Think about that, Fran."

"Maybe the right time to protect Fran, was two weeks ago when she wanted to give you the necklace. If you'd said, 'No, it's too risky,' maybe that would have been real loyalty to Dot."

Odds and Ends
By News Staff

VISITING HER SON and his family in another city during the Christmas holidays, a Sedalia woman went with them to a candlelight service. Prior to the service, a little girl about four years old, and a couple of rows in front of them, was acting up terribly. She yelled out that she didn't want to sit there, she hit at her mother, and the grandmother was disgusted with a mother who would allow her child to behave in such a manner.

Then she heard her own little granddaughter just about the same age whisper, "Grandmother."

She turned to her and leaned down to see what she wanted.

"Grandmother," said the youngster, "if I acted like that, and she nodded toward the bad little girl, 'my daddy would use his enchanted hand on me.'—H.L.

Significant Change In House

Halleck Front Line Politics Edges Martin Fast Shuffle

By JOSEPH A. DEAR
Of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — In Charlie Halleck House Republicans have an articulate and fiercely partisan leader who will argue the GOP case much more effectively than Joe Martin ever did.

The eloquent Halleck of Indiana is a superb operator for front line politics. The gruff and amiable Joe Martin of Massachusetts was a master of the fast shuffle in the quiet of the cloakroom.

On Capitol Hill that's the place to operate if passing legislation is your concern. And in that area Joe Martin was much more effective than Charlie Halleck ever will be.

Martin's effectiveness at behind-the-scenes maneuvering is partly the result of his very friendly relationship with House Speaker Sam Rayburn. Rayburn, who would be President if some calamity claimed both Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Nixon, is a real power. He could probably block any project that was personally obnoxious to him.

So House Republicans have both gained and lost in exchanging Martin for Halleck. Halleck will make their case with great vigor. But this will decrease chances for making attractive "deals" with Speaker Sam, at which Martin was adept.

Also, the party fight which brought about Martin's defeat will leave a bitter hangover. Harsh words were traded. Old bonds of loyalty were strained and broken.

Halleck was put in nomination by Rep. Noah Mason of Illinois, one of the most conservative members of the House. After the battle, photographers persuaded Martin to shake hands with Mason. But Martin was obviously reluctant.

He angrily charged that both Vice President Nixon and the "White House" helped bring him down. But strangely, his indictment did not include Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Actually, Martin's fate was sealed weeks ago at a private meeting just before Republicans of New York's congressional delegation were dining by Rockefeller. At this meeting, Rep. John Pillion polled the delegation. He estimated that 18 of its members would back dumping Martin. And that bit of intelligence induced Halleck to declare himself.

Those in the know say Gov. Rockefeller had no hand in this meeting. But its timing certainly would have looked suspicious to Martin, if he thought about it.

The rejection of Martin was in no sense a revolt of the "liberals." It is true that many "liberal" Republicans favored Halleck. But so did many of the "conservatives." Rep. John Taber of New York was one. He is ranking Republican on the Appropriations Committee, and is a firm advocate of economy. His was one vote Martin counted on.

To lose this position as minority leader, and all the prerequisites that go with it such as a chauffeur driven Cadillac, through the detection of old friends was the bitterest pill.

And some of these conservative old friends may come to regret their choice of Halleck. The coalition of Republicans and Southerners, which has been so valuable to the conservative cause for so long, was the creation of Speaker Sam and Joe Martin.

It's true that the coalition put a premium on back room dealing instead of front desk public relations. But it got results. The new arrangement will put the emphasis on front desk relations. In the end, the conservatives may conclude that results were preferable.

Dr. Jordan Says

Reasonable Amount of Fat Is Vital in Healthy Diet

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Fats are one of the three great classes of foodstuffs.

Fats are not used by the body as easily as the starches or proteins. A fairly complex chemical process has to take place before they can be burned up like the others.

Fats generated by the human body are generally divided into those of vegetable origin and those of animal origin.

Margarine, many nuts, cocoa and similar foods, are examples of vegetable fats. Animal fats include butter, cream and fat meat, such as bacon.

Butter and cream are well worth while, in addition to their fat value because they are good carriers of vitamin A, which is so important to good health. Most of the other fats (except, of course, the fish liver oils) carry very little of this vitamin.

Fats are present in many parts of the body. They make excellent heat insulators. They cushion vital organs. When stored, fat furnishes a compact form of energy which can be drawn upon at need. Certain fats are the cells which make living possible. Some fats are in and around nerve tissues.

While they are important to the body in all of these ways, large quantities of fat are not needed. It can be a disadvantage. Furthermore, the starchy foods can be transformed by the body into fats and so make fatty foods less necessary.

Nevertheless, the normal diet should contain some fats. For a person eating a 2,500-calorie diet, for example (which is about average for a reasonably active person), about 50 grams of fat a day might be included. This would be about the equivalent of five pats of butter one inch square and one-half inch thick.

For people doing heavy labor, more fats are usually desirable as they furnish such a good source of energy. A person who is on a diet for obesity and may be taking only 600 to 800 calories a day, may be restricted to a fat intake of only 20 to 25 grams daily.

There is also considerable investigation on the part which fats may play in hardening of the arteries, coronary heart disease and the like. But this will have to be the subject of discussion on some future occasion.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D.D.

Snowballs which are rolled along the whitened ground of winter gather snow so fast that they become difficult to handle. Only a few minutes of rolling adds so much weight that it cannot be lifted.

So it is with our complaints. A little gripe is readily expressed. It can be tossed from one person to the gripe-covered landscape it soon becomes unwieldy. Complaints just "snowball" in size until we cannot deal with them.

We need to place our criticisms in the shining sun of God's warm rays. Thus they will easily disappear, instead of becoming so great in size and so unwieldy that they resist elimination. We can enjoy seeing our gripes disappear if we have not pushed them beyond their melting time.

Square Dance Class For Adults Planned

Another free square dance class for adult couples will be started by the recreational division of the Sedalia Park Board on Sunday, Jan. 18, from 2 to 4:30 p.m. at Convention Hall, Liberty Park.

John Vandekamp, chairman of the board, stated that an opportunity would be given people who wanted to learn to square dance on Sunday afternoons because many people who are not free to go on the nights scheduled would be able to go on Sunday afternoon.

Vandekamp stated that the square dance class that has been going for the past several weeks would end soon and after that plans are to have square dances in Convention Hall every Wednesday night, open to the public, until Memorial Day, after which the dances will be held outside on the new platform recently built for square dancing and other recreation. The Park Board plans to bring nationally known callers to Sedalia for some of these dances and consequently a small charge will be made to pay for these outstanding callers.

YOUR EYES AND VISUAL FUNCTIONS

Another holiday period has brought an appalling record of highway traffic accidents resulting in near record numbers of dead and maimed victims. Speed is the cause of many of these accidents, but there are many other causes such as fatigue, drunkenness, poor or inefficient vision.

"I didn't see it," is one of the most common explanations given by surviving drivers who have had an accident. This is easily understood when we consider that ninety percent of all driving decisions are based on sight.

Every state in the U.S., except South Dakota now requires the new driver to have a physical examination, including vision tests, in order to secure a driver's license. Missouri is one of the states that does not require re-examination at the time of renewing an expired licence, if renewal is made within the grace period. It therefore becomes the duty of every driver to be sure his vision is good and efficient in order to provide for his own safety and that of pedestrians and other drivers. This can only be done by having regular, periodic examinations of eyes and visual functions.

Good visual acuity, the ability to discriminate and recognize detail, is one of the requirements of good vision. There are other factors to be met in determining whether or not a driver has adequate, efficient vision or not. Some of these are the areas or fields of vision, laterally and vertically, color recognition, fusion and depth perception, and adaptation to glare, light and darkness.

If you are a driver who has not had a recent vision test, the Missouri Optometric Association would urge you to have a careful visual analysis made soon.

Hazel Palmer Is Recognized For World Fair Trip

Miss Hazel Palmer, who went to Brussels, Belgium, last year as a representative from the United States to the Brussels World's Fair, has received a certificate of recognition for her services.

Miss Palmer was at that time president of the National Federation of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and was sent to Brussels, where she was consulted about various things in reference to the United States exhibit at the Fair, made a tape recording and gave talks. She saw very little of the Fair itself, because of these duties, but did see the United States exhibit which showed a panorama of American life.

The certificate was signed by Howard L. Cullaman, United States Commissioner General, Brussels, Belgium, was dated October, 1958, and bore the seal of the Brussels World's Fair. Miss Palmer received it Tuesday. It reads as follows:

"In recognition of public service, the United States Department of State extends to Hazel Palmer, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, its appreciation of assistance in the Brussels Universal and International Exposition 1958. It was through contributions such as yours, generously and willingly made in the public interest, that the United States could present to the world, at Brussels, a representative picture of our land and our people.

"It is my privilege to extend my official recognition to you on behalf of the Department of State."

Midshipman Arnest On Superintendent's List at Academy

Midshipman Charles S. Arnest, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Arnest, 501 West Broadway, class of 1962 has been appointed to the Superintendent's List at the U.S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., for scholastic accomplishments during the first term of the academic year 1958-59, it was announced recently.

The list is similar in many ways to the dean's list at many colleges and universities. In order for a midshipman to be so honored, he must meet a minimum academic average of 3.3 (82.5 percent) in his studies, have a mark no lower than 3.2 (80 percent) in aptitude, and possess a conduct standing satisfactory to the Commandant of Midshipmen.

Those who achieve the distinction of making the Superintendent's List are granted special privileges commensurate with their class for the succeeding term. This also creates among the midshipmen an increased interest in doing well and taking deeper pride in their work.

Order Deadline For Seedling Trees Is Feb. 15

Deadline for ordering tree seedlings from the Conservation Commission nurseries is Feb. 15, if the supply lasts that long according to State Forester George O. White, Jefferson City.

White said the nurseries distributed 74 per cent more tree seedlings in 1958 than they did the preceding year. As of Jan. 1, a total of 1,383,000 tree seedlings were sold at cost. A year ago the figure was 793,400.

The most popular species is shortleaf pine—623,000 seedlings have been ordered. Next is Scotch pine with 357,000 sold. The most popular hardwood is black walnut, with 66,600 ordered.

Orders for multiflora rose—which creates a living fence and is also a shelter for wildlife—jumped 98 per cent the past year with 1,261,000 seedlings requested. The number of wildlife bundles ordered from the Commission increased 74 per cent. Each bundle has 900 seedlings which include multiflora rose, cedar, jack pine, dogwood, redbud, pin oak, deciduous holly, mulberry, plus stratified walnut seeds and sericea lespedeza seed.

White said the demand is causing the most popular tree seedling species—shortleaf and Scotch pine—to be in short supply but orders will be filled on a first come, first served basis until the supply is exhausted. Orders must be channeled through the local county extension agent.

California, Chamois
Smithton Win Games

Top seeded California, Chamois and Smithton posted first round victories as the 29th annual California Invitational Basketball Tournament got underway Monday night. The tourney continues to night with four games on tap. (See the Area Cage Slate on this page for schedule.)

As expected, Coach Danny Williams' defending champions, the California Pintos, wallowed out-manned Tuscumbia, 85-60, in the feature game of the evening. Tuscumbia trailed 13-7 after the first quarter, but outscored the fast stepping host five in the second period to narrow the halftime deficit to five points, 33-28.

Spearheaded by Jerry Pace,

Louis Gabert and Donnie Flippin, the Pintos stretched out in the third quarter and built their advantage to 18 points. Thereafter the contest was never in doubt.

The victory was the 13th against only one setback for the Californians. Louis Gabert led the offensive with 21 points. Tuscumbia drops to the losers' bracket with a 1-10 record for the season. James Abett led the losers with 21 points.

Coach Tom O'Neal's Smithton Tigers chalked up their eighth triumph of the season by blasting the defensive minded Fayette Falcons, 36-26. The Tigers gained control by three points in the opening quarter and held on to the advantage throughout the contest.

Max Kahrs and Ned Monsees led the PBCAA conference team with 13 and 12 points, respectively. Howard Johnson tossed in 14 to pace the losers.

The Chamois Pirates measured Russellville in a see-saw contest, 65-50, behind the sharp shooting of Larry Helming who accounted for 25 points.

The Pirates were in command by two points at the close of the opening quarter and three points at halftime. In the third period the victors padded their lead to 15 points, but had to stave off Russellville's determined fourth quarter spurt which saw the Chamois advantage whittled to five points.

Bunceton Dragons Win Over Salisbury Team

The Bunceton Dragons raced to their twelfth victory of the season Monday night by slaughtering Salisbury Catholic High, 77-33, in a non-conference tilt on the Bunceton court. The Dragons have lost one this season.

With Harold Young capitalizing on short jump shots and Dean Luster hitting outside set shots with deadly accuracy, the Dragons took a 27-1 first quarter lead, as their opponents could account for only one charity toss. Thereafter Coach Rich Maloney used second stringers freely, but even they were too much for Salisbury, as Bunceton led 38-5 at the half.

Salisbury's attack picked up during the second half, but so did the Dragons and they were never challenged. Young paced Bunceton's offensive with 24 points and Luster contributed 18. Ron Rick, usually the scoring leader, was off form, accounting for only 14. Bob Widmer scored 10 to lead Salisbury.

Six-Man Tag
Team Clash
Here Tonight

The second wrestling program of the young year is on tap tonight at the Armory, with a rousing six-man team clash heading the four-match Legion-sponsored card.

It should be a full night's action from start to finish as Mighty Atlas and Cowboy Bob Ellis, two arch enemies, set the pace in the opening joust.

Leading up to the main go will be clashes between John Foti and Bob Orton and Lee Henning and Thor Hagen.

Orton and Henning will line up with Atlas in the six-man tag feature, opposing Ellis, Hagen and Foti.

Foti, a Canadian provincial champion, should prove a pleasant surprise to Sedalia area fans. Master of 1,000 holds Foti is able as they come when the going gets its roughest. In fact, he relishes nothing more than giving self-styled "villains" a lesson in the proper methods of attaining victory in the pro sport.

Atlas and Ellis have been anything but friends since Ellis first made his bow in Missouri. The big Texas cowboy has met Atlas on occasion and has managed to more than hold his own. One of the victories Ellis cherishes most was recorded over Atlas the second time they met in Sedalia. It must have cheered Sedalia fans as well since the handsome cowpoke is a favorite here.

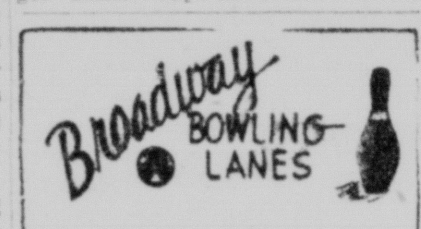

Their pairing in the opening event, scheduled for a 15-minute limit, is certain to be a fast-paced one. Neither is expected to do the physical damage to the other he'd like in the short span of 15 minutes.

That's why it figures that they'll try to take the play away from their partners in the team test and continue their personal battle.

It's certain the likes of Orton and Henning will be in the action somewhere. Neither has been known to stand by idly when things are happening in team action. Orton is a big, rough, Kansas City, Kansas who's given to using just about every maneuver not considered cricket in the sport. He's earned a reputation, the same as Henning, as a vicious workman in the ring.

Ellis has able partners in Foti and Hagen, both fast and shifty young men who are handy with roughing measures when the situation calls for them.

Tonight's opener is scheduled to get under way at 8:15.

County Court

The Pettis County Court ordered sold obsolete and surplus equipment of the maintenance department, resulting in nearly $2,000 being paid by purchasers of this equipment. Judge Berry Elliott reported the money obtained through the auction sale was considerably more than it would have brought had it been junked or sold for salvage.

This equipment, which became surplus, was from various road districts which have been abolished and which turned their equipment over to the county. Most of it, still usable on light work by private individuals and farmers, was not usable for county work.

It was explained by the court that most of it was machinery usable during the horse and buggy days and would be too costly to try to convert for county use.

Strain was given a police summons for driving a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating beverage, to appear in police court on Monday.

The Pontiac car was towed to the Howerton Service Station by a wrecker from there. The station wagon is owned by Matthew Yaggle, 1412 South Ohio, an airman at Whiteman Air Force Base, and the Oldsmobile is owned by Claude R. Wells, 1415 South Ohio.

All Day Meeting Held at Blackwater

Mrs. W. B. Marshall was hostess to the Blackwater Township Extension Club for an all-day meeting Friday, Jan. 2. Due to the inclement weather and illness of some of the members, only seven were present. A delicious chicken dinner to which each contributed a covered dish was enjoyed. The table was lovely, with a brightly colored Christmas tablecloth in keeping with the holiday spirit, also two large red candles, which were lighted during the meal.

In the afternoon, the yearbooks were filled out and the following project leaders announced by the president and hostess, Mrs. W. B. Marshall: Nutrition, Mrs. Walter Schanz, Mrs. Ben Scott; clothing, Mrs. York Finley and Mrs. Dick Thomas; home management, Miss Lil Schanz and Mrs. L. C. Griffith; public affairs, Mrs. Hall Williams; health, Dr. Anna McNeish; youth, Mrs. Dick Thomas; reading, Miss Mattie Ezell; family living, Mrs. Walter Schanz; handicraft, Mrs. W. W. Marshall and Mrs. Jerome Younger; horticulture, Mrs. W. B. Marshall; family relations, Mrs. Charles Younger; chaplain, Mrs. Jerome Younger.

The next meeting will be Feb. 13 at the home of Miss Mattie Ezell. Roll call will be "A new color scheme I have tried in my home."

During the business session, presided over by Mrs. W. B. Marshall, the monthly newsletter was read by Mrs. W. W. Marshall. It was entitled "Where the Money Goes". Mrs. W. B. Marshall read an article on "A Three-Cent Victim of Inflation" about the passing of the three-cent stamp. The group voted that in the future, it would take the cost of any gift for a guest speaker out of the treasury.

To close the meeting, the club collect was repeated in union.
